Residents can help keep Kellogg Park clean

BY LISA WAKELAND | LWAKELAND@COMMUNITYPRESS.COM

ANDERSON TWP. - Grab your work gloves and get ready to get dirty.

As part of the "Great American Cleanup" national event and "Keep Cincinnati Beautiful," the park district is asking volunteers to make a difference by picking up trash and debris in Kellogg Park on April 26.

"We were going to have it at Riverside Park and plant 3,000 trees, but we moved it to Kellogg Park because of the flooding," said Brian Jordan, business manager and volunteer coordinator for the park district. "That will be rescheduled for sometime in May."

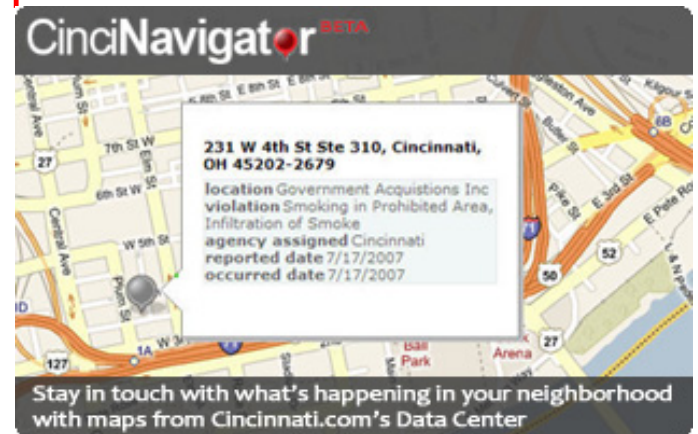

Last year, 80 volunteers came to Johnson Hills Park for the cleanup, and removed 25 tons of trash and debris.

"We hope to get the same amount (of volunteers) this year," Jordan said. "So far only eight are confirmed."

The park district will provide lunch, so pre-registration is preferred.

The deadline is Wednesday, April 23, though anyone can show up at the park prior to the cleanup.
